DETAILED ACTION

Continued Examination Under 37 CFR 1.114

1. A request for continued examination under 37 CFR 1.114 was filed in this application after a decision by the Board of Patent Appeals and Interferences, but before the filing of a Notice of Appeal to the Court of Appeals for the Federal Circuit or the commencement of a civil action. Since this application is eligible for continued examination under 37 CFR 1.114 and the fee set forth in 37 CFR 1.17(e) has been timely paid, the appeal has been withdrawn pursuant to 37 CFR 1.114 and prosecution in this application has been reopened pursuant to 37 CFR 1.114. Applicant's submission filed on February 20, 2004 has been entered.

Response to Amendment

- 2. The Amendment submitted on February 20, 2004, has been entered. Claim 55 has been amended. Therefore, the pending claims are 1-12, 39-46, 55, 57-76, and 87. Claims 1-12, 39-46, 60-76, and 87 are withdrawn from consideration as being drawn to a non-elected invention.
- 3. The amendment to claim 55 is sufficient to overcome the 35 USC 112 rejections set forth in the previous Office Action since the Applicant has removed the phrase "in the absence of a tiedown ply".

Claim Objections

4. Claim 55 is objected to because of the following informalities: In line 17 of claim 55 it appears the word "ore" should be "core" instead. Appropriate correction is required.

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 102/103

5. The text of those sections of Title 35, U.S. Code not included in this action can be found in a prior Office action.

Application/Control Number: 09/317,409

Art Unit: 1771

6. Claims 55 and 57 – 59 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 102(e) as anticipated by or, in the alternative, under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as obvious over Corbett et al. (5,895,699).

Corbett et al. discloses a honeycomb composite shown in Figure 1 and 2. Figure 1 shows that there are two outer prepreg layers surrounding a honeycomb core. Figure 2 shows, in more detail, the outer layers and how they are connected to the honeycomb core. The skin layer 102 comprises multiple prepreg sheets comprising carbon fiber impregnated with bismaleimide thermoset resin (column 4, lines 64-67). Next is an adhesive layer 108 tailored to achieve an adequate bond between the skin 102 and the barrier film 110 (column 5, lines 1-2). A second adhesive layer 112 comprising a scrim supported adhesive, bonds the barrier film 110 to the honeycomb core 106. And, as shown in Figure 6, some of the prepreg sheets in the skin layer can extend out into the edgeband region and function as tiedown plies 175. Thus, Corbett et al. teaches a core with two outer prepreg plies adjacent to each other in the skin layer. Both the skin layer 102 and the tiedown plies 175 would equate to Applicants claimed stiffness-treated fabric, a fabric with a polymeric material, the bismaleimide thermoset resin, disposed on at least some of the fibers. The composite taught by Corbett et al. further comprises the adhesive layer adjacent to the prepreg plies, which corresponds to the Applicant's claimed resin system. Thus, the skin layers 102, the tiedown plies 175, and the adhesive layer 108 form Applicant's stiffnesstreated prepreg ply, second prepreg ply, and resin system.

Although Corbett et al. does not explicitly teach the limitations frictional resistance, it is reasonable to presume that said limitations are inherent to the invention. Support for said presumption is found in the use of similar materials (i.e. prepregs made with polymeric material disposed on the fabric and an additional resin system) and in the similar production steps (i.e. layering the prepregs together to form a skin layer on top of the honeycomb core and bonding the layers together under heat and pressure) used to produce the honeycomb composite structure. The burden is upon the Applicant to prove otherwise. In re Fitzgerald, 205 USPQ 594. In the alternative, the claimed frictional resistance would obviously have been provided by the process disclosed by Corbett et al. Note In re Best, 195 USPQ 433, footnote 4 (CCPA 1977) as to the providing of this rejection under 35 USC 103 in addition to the rejection made above under 35 USC 102. Therefore, claims 55 and 57 – 59 are rejected by Corbett et al.

Art Unit: 1771
